GENERAL NEWS.

Ralph Waldo Emerson Dies at his Home in Concord.

JEWISH EXILES TO BE LOCATED ON THE YELLOWSTONE.

Another Fight had with the Apaches in Arizona—Anti-Monopoly Convention at Albany, N. Y.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

BOSTON, April 27.—Ralph Waldo Emerson died at his house in Concord, Mass., at 9 o'clock this evening.

The Albany Anti-Monopolists.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 26.—At the evening session resolutions were adopted declaring that public safety and welfare demand:

First—Laws compelling transportation companies to have charges on cost and risk of service with a fair profit added.

Second—To prohibit devices of fictitious cost for works of a public nature and prohibiting of unjust discriminations against individuals and localities.

Third—A non-partisan railroad commission.

Fourth—Free canals and a liberal policy towards other waterways.

Fifth—Prohibition of free passes and stringent measures against bribery, for the purity of the ballot box and to govern primary elections.

Sixth—Civil service reform.

Seventh—Equal rights in taxation of individuals and corporations.

Eighth—Free and unsubsidized press.

Also, if present political parties are controlled by monopolies a new one should be formed, the rights both of capital and labor recognized, and the aggregation of capital in unscrupulous hands must be restrained. It declares public lands should be reserved for actual settlers, currency be issued and controlled by the government, adoption of postal savings banks, telegraph and telephones.

Homes for the Exiles.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Times' St. Paul: Mr. Spear of Cincinnati, one of the three commissioners to whom are to be consigned the United States quota of Hebrew refugees from Russia, has just returned from a prospecting tour of the Yellowstone country. He was more than pleased, and expressed himself unmistakably in favor of the bottom lands between Miles City and Glendive as the location for 3000 of the refugees. He further said he would strongly recommend this site to his brother commissioners and offers to pay their expenses if after a trip to that country they did not agree with him. Each family is to take a small farm and will be furnished with sufficient money to put up a house and buy one year's provisions. With this start they can pay individual attention to their farming prospects. In this connection it may be stated that the Russian Jews, unlike their congeners of other countries, have a large proportion who are acquainted with agriculture. Many of them are skilled artificers and it is likely the new towns will absorb all of the better handicraftsmen, the latter being able to find more fitting work for their profitable employment in a country so rapidly springing into notice and augmenting in population.

Educational Convention.

CHICAGO, April 27.—The second anniversary of the New West Education Commission was held this forenoon in the Union Park Congregational church and was attended by a considerable number of the friends of christian education in Utah and New Mexico. Rev. F. A. Noble, president of the commission, delivered a brief account of the work of the commission and its purposes, in which he showed that it was endeavoring to lay the foundations of religious and moral culture in these far off territories. The committee had no schemes to be pushed against the conviction and criticism of the church and far seeing christian men and citizens would surely lend their aid to protect leading souls into the light and of advancing communities into loyalty and perpetuating the heritage we had received from the Father.

Forsyth's Fight.

CHICAGO, April 27.—A dispatch was received this morning at Gen. Sheridan's headquarters from Capt. Woodruff, dated at Lordsburg to-day. It confirms the news that Gen. Forsyth struck the hostile Apaches yesterday and killed six of them. The fight occurred in the southeastern corner of Arizona, in the vicinity of old Camp Rucker. The Indians were being pursued when the dispatch was sent. Gen. MacKenzie approves the operations thus far. Gen. Sheridan says that the length of time which will be required to restore peace and safety to that section will depend on whether or not the Apaches get over the line into Mexico, where troops are not at liberty to follow them. The country is extremely rough in that section and it is almost impossible to get at the hostiles. Gen. Sheridan fully sustains Gen. Forsyth in his movements in this campaign.

Death on the Rail.

GALLION HILL, Ohio, April 27.—The local night train was going south on the Sand run fork of Monday creek on the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo road when a trestle gave way, dropping the engine into Sand run. W. B. Dolland, engineer, and his son Charlie, fireman, were instantly killed by steam, and Jos. Hiles, head brakeman, had both legs broken and other injuries. He will not recover. The engine was entirely submerged in the water and the engineer and fireman both held under water by the wreck.

Killed by Poor Pork.

ATCHISON, Ks., April 27.—A case of trichinosis is reported from Clyde. On the 23d inst. Adam Ballinger killed a hog, of which the entire family ate, and during the night all were seized with vomiting and all the symptoms of trichina. A son, aged twelve, died during the night and the rest of the family are in a dying condition except Mrs. Ballinger, who may recover. Movements of trichina in the raw pork may be observed with the naked eye.

Lynched.

LAKE CITY, Col., April 27.—This morning at one o'clock 100 masked men overpowered the guard and took from jail Geo. Betts and Jim Browning, who shot and killed Sheriff Campbell yesterday morning while attempting to arrest them. The men were taken to a bridge in the [illegible] part of town and hung. Both died game.

[illegible]

NEW YORK, [illegible] among the horses and [illegible]. One dealer lost [illegible]

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 27.—[illegible] that the Chicago and Alton [illegible] train has been wrecked at Grain valley, [illegible] east of here, with heavy loss of life. No particulars yet.

[illegible]

CHICAGO, April 27.—Inquiry at the general offices of the Chicago and Alton road in this city elicited the information that reports of the accident on the line of the road east of Grain valley, near Kansas City, were greatly exaggerated. A dispatch to the general manager's office said the train which left this city at noon yesterday is off the track at the point indicated. The cause is not stated. The engineer on the train was the only person reported injured, and he but slightly.

Accident from Thoughtlessness.

CHICAGO, April 27.—The cable or grip cars running on State street are proving a dangerous means of locomotion. A man was fatally hurt yesterday and a young man was instantly killed to-day by falling under the wheels of a moving train. This makes the fifth victim since the line started last winter. The cause is usual thoughtlessness of passengers.

Train Robbers Captured.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Four of the gang of highwaymen, who attempted to rob the express train on the Texas Pacific railroad last week, have been captured and the prospect is that the entire gang will be secured. A reward of $1000 for the capture of each has been offered by the railroad company.

Terrible Carelessness.

A horrible affair is reported from Georgia. A gang of 100 state convicts, chained together, were being transported on platform cars en route for the work of wood cutting. The train stopped at a station and a portion of the gang getting off the cars, still chained fast to those on board, the train started suddenly and those who had just got off, being unable to get on the cars, were dragged over the rails and ties for some distance feet foremost. Six of the unfortunates were so badly mangled they are not expected to survive.

Another Brush with the Apaches.

LORDSBURG, N. M., April 27.—A fight occurred yesterday afternoon at Stein's peak, between Indians and Capt. Tupper of the 6th cavalry and his Indian scouts. Four of the latter are reported killed and two private soldiers. It is claimed that six of the hostiles were killed. Many wild rumors are afloat here but no other authentic information has been received.

Died in a Dental Chair.

OMAHA, April 27.—Mrs. Isaac Thompson of Sarpy county, while having some teeth extracted by Dr. Charles of this city to-day, expired in the dental chair from the effects of chloroform. A postmortem examination was held and it was discovered she had heart disease and diseased kidneys.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Dr. Lamson to be Hanged.

LONDON, April 27.—Further respite for Dr. Lamson is refused. The home secretary has decided that no ground exists justifying further delay in the execution of the sentence, and Lamson will accordingly be hanged Friday morning. The home office has notified all interested to this effect.

Marriage of Prince Leopold.

The marriage of Prince Leopold to Princess Helen of Waldeck, took place at George's chapel, Windsor, to-day. A large crowd gathered at the station to witness the departure of wedding guests. Windsor was gaily decorated with flags and bunting in honor of the event. Shops were closed and the town crowded with visitors. Salutes were fired during the day, and war ships at Portsmouth and other places decorated with flags. The marriage ceremony, which was conducted with great pomp, was concluded shortly after 1 o'clock, the archbishop of Canterbury being the chief officiating clergyman.

American Trotters Sold.

LONDON, April 27.—Fifteen American trotting horses brought from Detroit by Henry Shelby, sold in London for £3580 to-day, including Baby Leo 180 guineas, Jennie £125, German Girl £115, Grace Darling £110, and Little Wonder £100.

A Knight of the Garter.

The queen invested the king of the Netherlands with the order of the garter.

CANADA.

Railroad Property Seized.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 26.—The sheriff has seized all rolling stock and property of the Canadian Pacific railway at this place to satisfy a judgment of $100,000 obtained against the Canada Central railway.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is mild and soothing in its immediate and apparent effects, and possesses far-reaching and powerful healing qualities which its persistent use will demonstrate in any case of coughs, colds, throat or lung troubles of any kind.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 27.

Discussion of the Chinese bill was continued by Farley. He insisted that the 15th section should be retained in order to make the bill effectual and replied in detail to a number of objections urged against the proposed legislation. Farley also, in the course of his remarks, commented with severity upon the failure of the republican members of the Pacific coast delegation to take counsel with their democratic colleagues in preparing the new bill, which had been hurried through the house of representatives without opportunity for amendment. He announced, however, that while under these circumstances the democrats would not be responsible for any defects in the bill, they would nevertheless furnish the votes to pass it, rather than risk a failure to obtain the relief for the people of the Pacific coast at this session.

Farley's speech was considerably interrupted by a Massachusetts senator who desired to correct alleged misstatements concerning the North Adams Chinese experiment, and by the reception of a message from the president about Arizona troubles. Farley concluded at 3:30 and Dawes then took the floor.

Sherman introduced a bill to regulate coinage of standard silver dollars. It repeals the provision for coinage of not less than 2,000,000 dollars in silver per month and directs purchase of bullion from time to time and its coinage at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury; referred.

The political disabilities bill brought on a political discussion. Edmunds opposed indiscriminate removal of disabilities from confederates, and Vest, Garland, Maxey and Hampton replied.

The senate without action then took up the Chinese bill.

Dawes spoke very briefly on the Chinese bill and was in favor of the measure.

House.

The house resumed the Lynch-Chalmers case.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—About 8 o'clock this morning Dr. E. N. Woodward, dentist, entered the room of a woman known as Mollie Woodward, with whom he had been cohabiting, at 1037 Mission street, between Sixth and Seventh. The woman was partly dressed and was sitting on a bed. Woodward made some remarks to the effect that she had been bearing his name long enough without being his wife, and drawing a revolver fired at her. The ball struck just below the left eye, and ranging downward and sideways lodged in the muscles of the neck on the right side. Woodward then turned the pistol on himself, the first shot inflicting a flesh wound, and the second entered the mouth, causing instant death. From what can be gathered from the statement of the woman and the circumstances, the parties have been living together as man and wife. The woman's real name is Woodward, she being the wife of a man by that name, son of a wealthy rancher in Napa county. She separated from her husband some time ago and took up with Dr. Woodward. He is no relation to her husband. The doctor was jealous of her, and wished her to marry him, and her refusal is considered the cause of his action. Woodward was a man of middle age, and of respectable standing in his profession. The woman is likely to recover, though the wound is very serious.

Anti-Chinese Convention.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—The anti-Chinese convention met this evening pursuant to adjournment. The committee appointed last night to prepare a plan of action submitted a lengthy report embodying a method of procedure. The principal feature proposed was a plan for the formation of what was to be known as a league of deliverance. The report provided that the constitution for this organization be prepared and adopted by a general convention, to meet at such time and place as may be hereafter be determined upon. This convention is to be composed of delegates chosen from labor unions and kindred organizations throughout the Pacific coast states and territories. The report declared who were eligible to membership in the league of deliverance, initiation fees, dues, etc. The principal object of such organization is to exact a pledge from all its members not to employ Chinese labor in any form, and not to patronize Chinese manufactures. The report also included an address to all the labor organizations of the United States, thanking them in behalf of the convention for their expressions of sympathy in the purposes of that body, and co-operation in the efforts of laboring men on the Pacific coast to counteract the baneful effects of Chinese immigration. Also for their hearty disapproval of President Arthur in vetoing the Chinese bill. The committee appointed on resolutions presented resolutions setting forth the degrading and impoverishing effects of continued Chinese importation on the white laborers of this coast. Also pledging themselves to aid, encourage, support and individually and collectively attend and assist at any public demonstration to prevent the landing on the docks of any more coolies. The resolutions asserted that this demonstration is to be resorted to only after all other means had been found ineffectual. The convention then adjourned until to-morrow evening.

A Strange Death.

DANVILLE, April 27.—J. G. VanMater, an old citizen of this place, while swarming bees to-day by some means got several insects in his mouth. He was stung in the throat and died in a few minutes from suffocation caused by the swelling.

NEVADA.

Shooting Affray.

BODIE, April 27.—A shooting affray occurred at Lundy yesterday between James Slack and Michael Egan, both miners. Slack was shot four times and died this morning. Egan was shot in the right hand and right side, but is not dangerously wounded. Slack was a quarrelsome man and killed John Clark in Lundy two years ago. Egan had long lived in Virginia City and was considered a peaceable citizen.

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

There are 20 voting precincts in Wasco county.

A great many fruit trees are being planted in the vicinity of Villard this spring.

The Dalles was visited by a snow shower last week which left the Klickitat hills white.

Two box cars per day have been turned out of the machine shops at The Dalles for the past six weeks.

The funeral of Hon. Samuel Hannah at Union on the 15th was largely attended. It was conducted under the auspices of the Masonic order.

The season is quite backward in Baker county. Farmers have been struggling manfully with the storms in the attempt to get in spring grain.

Farmers in Tygh valley, Wasco county, are busy with their spring planting. A larger acreage than ever before will be sown. A light snow covered the valley on the morning of April 15th, but soon disappeared.

O. P. Johnson & Co. left Baker City on last Wednesday with 918 head of cattle, purchased in that vicinity, and will get nearly 2000 more as they pass through Burnt river, already contracted for. The stock will be driven to Sweet Water, Neb.

The temperance question is being agitated with much warmth at The Dalles. Several arrests for violation of the Sunday law, by selling liquor upon that day, took place last week, the trials of each case resulting in the disagreement of the jury. No such excitement has been witnessed in the city since the days of the crusade. Rev. J. C. Bowen, of the Baptist church, delivered several temperance lectures last week, which were largely attended.

Washington Territory.

An illustration of what can be done in farming in the newly-settled portions of Washington territory is furnished by Charles Newell, who went into Klickitat county five years ago with $8 in money and 15 horses. If he had been a slow-going, sleepy-headed chap, by this time he would have been dead broke, grumbling and anxious to leave the country; while in fact he is more independent and happy than a king, is to-day well off and his worldly goods are fast increasing. In the Pleasant valley section, near the headwaters of Rock creek, he has under fence over 3000 acres of land. He has recently bought the Dunn band of horses, which have for several years been in the charge of Thomas Butler. There are fully 60 of them, which added to the number already owned by him makes quite a respectable band. He expects his mares this year to foal fully 150 colts. No ranch in the country is better adapted to stock-raising, and he is also doing something in the hog line. This season Mr. Newell will raise about 200 acres of grain.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Third Day of the Blaine Investigation Committee.

A LIVELY TILT BETWEEN BELMONT AND BLAINE.

The Anti-Chinese Bill again Laid Over One Day for Final Action.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

CHICAGO, April 27.—A special from Washington says: The scene between Belmont and Blaine is the principal topic of conversation at the capital. The general impression is that it is a little comedy to a long farce whose intent was to lampoon Blaine, and that he came out fully a victor in spite of the united efforts of his political opponents in and out of the party. It is only necessary to read the report of the proceedings by the associated press to be convinced that the scene, while the most exciting of anything seen here for many months, yet was rather ridiculous in many respects. Blaine is a man of fine physique, while Belmont is a very small, rather insignificant looking man, of perhaps thirty, weighing a little over 100 pounds. He is, however, an accomplished boxer and fencer, having taken prizes in New York for excellence in athletic accomplishments.

At the close of Belmont's cross-examination of Blaine a most exciting and unusual scene occurred. Blaine stated that as Belmont, after being warned on Monday, had persisted in misquoting his dispatches and putting on them a construction utterly foreign, he was compelled to change his opinion of him, which had heretofore been that he was a gentleman. An exciting colloquy ensued, which the committee were unable to interrupt.

Belmont intimated that he would deal with Blaine in private, and followed it up with the words, "I believe you are a bully and a coward."

Blaine, addressing the committee and ignoring Belmont, replied, "Mr. Chairman, this young man has disgraced himself. He has been put forward by those who are behind him to insult me, but he is incapable of doing so."

The scene was a most remarkable one, and notwithstanding the efforts of the chairman to smooth the troubled waters and obviate the necessity for any misunderstanding, the impression prevailed at adjournment of the meeting that the dispute had by no means ended. It is the subject of comment on all sides this afternoon.

Blaine, who had been standing and speaking with a good deal of excitement, here took his seat, and Belmont jumped from his chair and said, "Of course Blaine's object is plain, that is to avoid a direct issue."

Blaine—(Rising and striking the table with his clenched hand.) What issue?

Belmont—The issue which must be met.

Blaine—What issue?

Belmont—(Also rising and striking the table.) I will not answer a single question that you ask from this time to the end of the examination. You have stated what I deem to be entirely incorrect. You have attempted to place me in a false position. In this you will not succeed. I said that the quotation marks were a mistake of the printer and your language bears the construction I put upon it. A careful reader will agree with me and a careless reader may be influenced by your speech. The commencement of this examination this morning relieves me of all the consideration I mentioned yesterday which I intended to observe to a man who had held the office of secretary of state. You placed yourself on a level with any other witness and I will examine you as such.

Blaine—(Angrily.) What do you mean?

Belmont—I mean that you have been before committees before and that you have endeavored to threaten.

Wilson interrupted—I submit that this is not in order.

Blaine—This is intolerable. The insolence of this young man is intolerable.

Belmont—You have brought it on yourself.

"I have no more regard for your insolence," retorted Blaine, "than I would have for that of a boy on the street."

Belmont—Mr. Blaine has had due experience before committees and he has endeavored to threaten them. He has done it for the last time. He will not do it to me.

Blaine—This is on trifling. I hope the committee will protect itself. I have no power.

After some confusion quiet was restored and Blaine replied to questions.

Belmont asked if witness had seen a letter of Gen. Grant, in which he said: "It is about time for the United States to step in."

"I was very much surprised," witness replied, "at Hurlbut bringing on the witness stand what I supposed was a private letter from Gen. Grant. I think it was on the 23d of September that Robert Randall showed me a letter. I presume it was the same letter. I don't believe Grant ever intended it should be made public."

Belmont said there was some doubt about Landreau being an American citizen and referred to the letter of instruction to Trescott.

Blaine—I must confess I was greatly surprised at the publication of that dispatch. I thought I had an understanding with the president that the dispatch should not be published until Trescott returned from South America. When it had been sent to the senate I telegraphed immediately to the white house and urged it might be withheld from the associated press. That evening I sent a note to the president, stating my reasons why it ought to be withheld. It was however published, and I believe there have been no more serious results from improper publication of state department dispatches than have resulted from this. Trescott considered his mission at South America ended, and from that time there has been no earthly use of keeping him there.

Belmont had further questions to ask.

Belmont—No; but what do you call a scene?

The chairman again appealed to both gentlemen to proceed regularly with the examination, and after a moment calm was restored and Belmont proceeded.

Belmont—Did not the resolution of the house of representatives of February 20, 1880, to which you referred in your direct examination and again yesterday, limit its request to the president to use such steps as in his opinion might be proper and in accordance with international law to secure to Landreau—I mean the pretended American citizen, I mean the man who has lobbied about here with a fraudulent claim, who pretends to be an American citizen, of whose nationality there is no record in the court of New Orleans—

Dunnell (interrupting)—Mr. Chairman, that is not a straight question.

Blaine (laughingly)—I am done with protesting.

Dunnell—This is putting a stump speech in the body of the question, and I do not believe in it. It is a very easy thing to ask a plain question, but I do not believe in the propriety of putting stump speeches in the middle of a question.

Belmont—Stump speeches have been put in the middle of answers.

Dunnell—Very well; the committee have directed that questions should be asked and direct answers given. I wish you to start out in that way.

Belmont—We should have started so in the beginning.

Dunnell—We have started so now, and let us get along.

Belmont—I don't intend there shall be any false conception about this Landreau matter. There never was a case with so little foundation brought into the state department, and that has received so much attention there.

Dunnell inquired of the chairman whether Belmont was asking a question.

Chairman—I submit that judgment of the interrogator.

Dunnell—I think that the committee has a right to have some judgment of its own.

Chairman—The committee will exercise that right by appeal to the self respect of members of the committee, witness and all. The chair has no power to commit for contempt and would be very loth to exercise it if it had.

Belmont (addressing the chair)—The fact is there has been so much based on the report of O'Connor (law officer of the state department) that it is important to establish the fact that the report itself is in the opinion of O'Connor at present unfounded. In fact the report says J. C. Landreau was a minor under 19 years of age in 1857, but he neglects to give the exact age. It appears he acquired his partnership interest in 1859. In admitting, then, that O'Connor had provided that J. C. Landreau had acquired, even while yet a minor, certain rights against his brother, will Blaine tell me how O'Connor would prove that Landreau had acquired any rights against Peru. Will Blaine be kind enough to answer that question now?

Blaine—Do you want to get me to estimate of the means of O'Connor's ability to prove any given proposition?

Belmont—I am asking you a simple question.

Blaine—Please repeat it.

Belmont—Mr. O'Connor in his report says that J. Landreau was a minor under 18 years of age in 1857, but he neglects to give his exact age. It appears that he (Landreau), the pretended American citizen of whose naturalization there is no record, had acquired a partnership interest in 1859. The pretended naturalization occurred in 1867. In admitting that, Mr. O'Connor half proved that J. C. Landreau had acquired, even while yet a minor, certain rights against his brother. The brother is the original claimant, a French citizen who appealed to his own government in vain. The French government would have nothing to do with him. How could Mr. O'Connor prove that J. C. Landreau had acquired right against Peru.

Blaine (derisively)—I know, Mr. Chairman, that it would be impossible for Mr. Belmont to repeat that question. It is one of those explicit and direct questions to which I am asked to give answer, and I shall ask the stenographer to read the question over again with permission of the committee.

The official stenographer having read the question Blaine made the same request of the reporter of the associated press, who also read the question.

Blaine—Now I am very anxious to give a direct answer, but I don't know whether you mean I am an extraordinary witness. [Laughter.]

Belmont—I treated you with the greatest deference as a man who has been secretary of state, and it is not my fault.

Blaine (humorously)—No; it is not your fault that I was secretary of state [illegible] at all. [Laughter.]

Belmont—Nor is my fault that you made that very unwarranted and [illegible] assault [illegible] to-day. I will now [illegible]

The chair again appealed to Blaine and Belmont, and [illegible]

"I want to put in a word here. I am not only willing [illegible] I have [illegible] invited [illegible] and I have [illegible], but at the same time, when you have two hours [illegible] matter [illegible] I am not [illegible] of [illegible] before [illegible] the United States [illegible] carried beyond all bounds of courtesy and decorum, [illegible] by [illegible] examination to which I have been subjected.

Atrocities on the Jews.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Judge Belford, representative in congress from Colorado, had an interview to-day with the president regarding the persecution of Jews in Russia. The judge showed that the atrocity practiced on the Jews in Russia had taken the form of destruction of property by plunder, fire, injury to person, murderous assaults, outrages on mothers, wives and daughters, and deliberate murder. As nearly as the results of these atrocities can be ascertained and stated in figures it appears that over 200 Jews had been violated, 60 men killed, 70 wounded, 20,000 rendered homeless, and about $75,000,000 worth of property stolen and wrecked. Judge Belford reminded the president that intervention in such cases has been practiced by civilized nations the past two centuries. He cited a number of cases where intervention has occurred in late years, among them that of Russia in behalf of persecuted Christians in Turkey. Intervention of Russia on behalf of Greek Christians in Turkish dominions was allowed to be a justification for undertaking the Crimean war, and in 1877 the intervention of Russia in behalf of Christian subjects of the sultan was the single pretext for the Russo-Turkish war. The president said he felt deeply interested in the case of the persecuted Hebrews and was determined to do everything proper to induce Russia to extend the fullest protection to this class. He addressed a communication to our representative at St. Petersburg, directing him to invite the attention of the czar to these reported atrocities, and to express the abhorrence in this country in relation to their perpetration, and entreating the exercise of his authority to prevent their recurrence. President Arthur said that while it was a delicate matter for this country to interfere with matters between the government of Russia and its subjects, yet he was determined to do all possible. In any event he was determined American Hebrews temporarily residing in Russia should receive care due to American citizens.

Blaine's Examination.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Before the foreign affairs committee this morning, Belmont resumed the examination of Blaine, but before making much progress, he said: "Mr. Belmont exhausted two hours of time in the committee yesterday in traveling in a circle. He repeated his questions six or eight or ten times over; of course he has a right to, but it is all based on the fact that he made two quotations, absolute palpable misquotations. While I have the largest possible stock of patience I would rather he would come directly to the point. There are many important points I would like to be heard upon, but iteration and reiteration of the same questions, in order to vindicate Belmont for having made the blunder to misquote me in two particulars is a little exhausting. He has had two palpable misquotations and has made no explanation of them, when, as the gentleman I understand him to be, he ought to state frankly he did it."

Grant will Make no more Recommendations.

A letter was received here a few days ago by an applicant for a position from Gen. Grant, in which Gen. Grant says he has not recommended anyone for office recently, unless an opinion has been requested by the president or a member of his cabinet. He had made but one exception to this rule and that was in the case of an army appointment, which, if the best interest of the service and justice to great service had been done, would have been made years ago. He did not intend in future to suggest or interfere in the slightest degree with appointments.

The Routine of Work.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The republican caucus committee appointed to lay out a programme in relation to order of business have decided that the tariff commission bill, which will be again taken up as soon as the election case of Lynch vs. Chalmers is disposed of, shall be pushed for final action and then the remaining election cases and after them the appropriation bills. An effort will be made to pass a bill for the distribution of the Geneva award, and the Bowman bill or a substitute to relieve congress from the consideration of private bills.

Farley's Ideas.

Senator Farley, of California, in discussing the anti-Chinese bill this afternoon gave that question a political turn. He said the matter of the anti-Chinese legislation had been taken charge of by the republicans and managed in close corporation style. He complained that the democrats from the Pacific coast had not been consulted as to the details of their constituents, and claimed that to the democrats belongs the credit of all that may have been achieved.

A Partisan Debate.

Debate in the senate this afternoon took a more decided partisan shape than yet during the present session. It occurred over the bill to repeal section 1218 of the revised statutes, which prohibits those connected with the rebellion from holding a position in the U. S. army.

Senator Edmunds said he regarded it as an effort of the democrats to repeal legislation intended to maintain the results of the war. He spoke of all attempts of the democrats in the last congress to repeal war legislation by means of riders on appropriation bills, and said he was ready now and at all times to meet and resist these efforts of democrats.

Beck and Vest made speeches from the democratic side, claiming that the sentiment of the country is averse to maintaining war memories.

Message on the Arizona Troubles.

A message from the president to congress this afternoon recites that great lawlessness exists in Arizona; that the governor reports that violence and lawlessness reign; that robbery and murder are common and citizens alarmed, and that cowboys cause this trouble. To suppress this the president recommends that the army be permitted to co-operate with the civil authorities and that soldiers be permitted to be employed in that territory as a posse comitatus; referred to judiciary committee.

Confirmatory Dispatches.

The war department has dispatches confirming the reports of Indian depredations, and there is much indignation outside of army circles that nothing more is accomplished to protect the people of Arizona. At the department it is explained that it is impossible to use cavalry to any advantage in the mountains and canyons, and that infantry are entirely worthless, while the number of troops in Arizona is about 1500, half cavalry and Indian scouts.

Star Route Cases.

In the Kendall case to-day D. H. Woodward corroborated the evidence of James and MacVeagh as to Dorsey's connection with star routes. Rerdell told him Turner and the former assistant postmaster general, Tyner, had received 2000 shares each to influence official action. A. M. Gibson also received the same amount. McGrew, the auditor and deputy auditor had divided a certain sum, Rerdell claimed. Adjourned.

Blaine's Friends Pleased.

Blaine's friends are highly pleased over his course in the investigating committee. It is felt he has fairly succeeded in putting his administration of the state department in the proper light, an opportunity he has not before had.

The Bill again Postponed.

The presentation of a conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill and some debate on it prevented action on the Chinese bill to-day and it went over until five o'clock to-morrow.

THE TURF.

Bay District Races.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The attendance was large this afternoon at the second day's racing at the Bay District Park under the auspices of the Pacific Blood Horse Association. The weather was unusually fine and the track in excellent condition.

First race—Hearst stakes, free for all, ¾ mile dash, three starters; won by Jim Renwick, Atalanta 2d, Night Hawk 3d; time, 1:15.

Second race—Trial stakes for maiden 3-year-olds, dash 1⅛ miles, two starters; won by Maria F., carrying 7 pounds extra, Hattie B. 2d; time, 2:03¾.

Third race—For Selling purse, dash 1½ miles, six starters; won by Minnie Norris, Geo. C. Bender 2d; time, 2:51.

Fourth race—For Pacific cup, 2¼ miles, three starters; won by Duchess of Norfolk (3-year-old); Boots second, Precious 3d; time, 3:58¼.

PRIEST RAPIDS.

A Promising Town Site on the Upper Columbia—A Correspondent's Views as to its Future Possibilities.

YAKIMA, W. T., April 24.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

During the past several months an incorporated company, which has its headquarters at this place, and which is known as the Eastern Washington Development company, has been making preliminary arrangements to develop a large section of agricultural country through the establishment of a shipping and trading point at Priest Rapids, on the upper Columbia. With this object in view the managers of the company has been in correspondence with the general freight agent of the O. R. & N. Co., who has consented to extend the transportation line up the river to the Rapids by running a regular boat between Ainsworth and that point. The development company has also established and erected a large warehouse there for the storage of grain and merchandise, and are proceeding as rapidly as possible to supply other things needful to make their enterprise a success.

The point known as Priest Rapids is 75 miles northwest of Ainsworth. Owing to a somewhat angular bend in its channel the Columbia at that place is not more than 40 miles from the Yakima valley, while the beautiful and productive Kittitas valley is even nearer to it than this. When it is considered that at present the nearest outlet for the agricultural products of Kittitas is through The Dalles, Oregon, a distance of 150 miles, and that from the same point must be hauled over this long, mountainous road all of the goods, wares and merchandise, all of the machinery and implements, all of the clothing, stoves, furniture and other things necessary to supply the varied wants of a large and industrious community, you will not wonder that the Priest Rapids movement, or any other scheme which promises relief from this present obstacle to our county's prosperity, is regarded by our people as a subject of great interest. While nothing short of a railroad into this section will in full measure afford the desired relief, it is believed that an outlet to Portland through Priest Rapids, will go as far in that direction as any other expedient, provided the transportation rates down the river are placed at the lowest possible scale between these points. I hear it stated that the O. R. & N. Co. have long desired to extend its line of boats up the river and this would seem to give earnest, that liberal encouragement will be extended to the Development Co.'s present undertaking. I believe, however, that all the company requires is a regular running vessel and a fair chance to establish the feasibility of their scheme and build up a large town which will be found to possess several advantages over The Dalles—a city somewhat similarly situated, and with which it will in some measure compete.

In the first place, Priest Rapids is centrally located with reference to a great number of rich and productive valleys, as well as a large region of undeveloped country, both above and below it. Railroad or no railroad, a vast extent of this country must, for many years in the future, depend upon the Columbia for transportation, and the most natural point for concentration of the shipping and trade of this country is at the present embryo town of Priest Rapids. In the second place the vast undulating country lying between the Wenatchie and Yakima rivers, and which is likely to become at no distant day the home of a large population of thrifty agriculturists, will necessarily be mainly dependent upon the Columbia river for their supply of timber for houses, fuel, fences and other domestic purposes. Indeed, the lack of such timber has heretofore constituted the principal obstacle to settlement of the region referred to. While excellent timber is found in great abundance on the Wenatchie, which empties into the Columbia far above the rapids, it has been unavailable for a single settler in the vicinity of the latter place, as it must be, located a great distance before reaching that point, and even when there it would have been useless for building purposes in the absence of a mill to manufacture it into lumber. To supply this absolute necessity it is said to be the purpose of the Development Company to erect a sawmill as soon as practicable at their new town site. Two members of the company have just returned from a tour of inspection up the Wenatchie, and report that the project of floating timber down to the rapids is in all respects feasible, and that the indications are that lumber and fuel may be supplied for use in that vicinity as cheaply as it may now be had in many of the most thrifty portions of the territory. With this necessity supplied there is no reason why a very large section of most excellent agricultural country which now lies dormant and profitless should not be rapidly filled with settlers; and with the addition of a flouring mill to prepare grain for shipment and the establishment of a store, a blacksmith shop and a postoffice, there is no reason why Priest Rapids should not in the course of time become the Minneapolis of the Columbia. Is this not possible? And if not, why not?

The steamer John Gates made her first trip to the rapids last week. The development company had scarcely completed their warehouse, and yet they were at once called upon to find storage for some 60 tons of merchandise, including agricultural implements for Kittitas valley, supplies for the Okanagan and goods for a new store in Ellensburg. In returning the vessel took toward Portland several tons of flour from Kittitas valley, and had the time of her proposed arrival been known for a certainty, she would have received a cargo of beef cattle which were driven from the neighboring range to Ainsworth on the day previous to her arrival. The vessel also brought up a number of passengers en route for Ellensburg. Did the first vessel to the Dalles, to Minneapolis or to any other new town do better than this? And may we not with reason and well-grounded hope look upon this as the first step toward the development and settlement of that vast bunch-grass plain which lies in what is known as the "Big Bend of the Columbia?" This region is pronounced by all who have seen it to be one of great fertility, but owing to an absence heretofore of any contiguous landing point or facilities for shipping produce it has remained a wilderness. There are also numerous fertile valleys on the west side of the Columbia, including those in the Okanagan, Wenatchie, Cold creek, Sulphur creek and other countries in which there are few settlers. Each of these several countries is somewhat dependent upon its neighbors for the first step toward advancement, while each and all of them if once developed must depend largely upon the Columbia for means of transportation in the absence of any better outlet. Priest Rapids, being the head of navigation for, the present, may therefore become a depot or shipping point with no mean backing. A road has already been constructed from the rapids to Ellensburg, and as the distance is short for hauling, the entire surplus product of Kittitas valley will likely be shipped to tide-water through the warehouses of the Development Co. A road is also being constructed to the rapids from Yakima City, and inasmuch as the grades on this new road are very light, teamsters estimate $20 a ton less than from The Dalles, especially if it is found practicable for them to have a load out as well as in. It is therefore considered quite certain that the shipping of the entire Yakima country will be transferred from the last named place to the new town of Priest Rapids, which is situated in our own county, and, as may be seen by the map, in nearly the exact center of the territory. This latter fact may never cause it to be selected for the state capital, as some one has half earnestly suggested, but it seems to me the place has many natural advantages which are not unlikely to make it a point of no little importance. As to this matter, time will determine. In the mean time, however, business men who may possess an ambition to be numbered among the first inhabitants of this "future great city," will do well to bend their steps in that direction. And emigrants who have come west to "grow up with the country," will not be likely to regret it if they seek a home in Yakima county.

A Washington Territory Joke.

St. Louis Library Docket, March 25, 1882.

Ex-Judge Dennison, formerly chief justice of Washington territory, was arguing a motion in the district court before his honor Chas. J. Greene, who is credited with being a very scholarly man. Judge Dennison is a lawyer of the old school—tall, clean shaven, with deep-toned voice and stately manner. Having occasion to refer to "Browne on Medical Jurisprudence" Dennison pronounced it, as if in two syllables, Brow-ne. Judge G. interrupted him with the remark: "I presume you mean Brown, do you not?" "Your honor," replied D., "this author's name is spelled B-r-o-w-n-e, and if that doesn't spell Brow'ne, I don't know what does." "But," said the judge, "my name is spelled G-r-e-e-n-e, and you wouldn't call me 'Greeney,' would you?" Without a smile on his sphinx like face, and in his most sepulchral tone, came the answer, which convulsed the court: "Your honor, that will depend on how you decide this motion?"

Degenerate Youth.

Philadelphia Times.

Twenty years ago the young man who drank was the exception; now the young man who does not drink is the rarity. We are accustomed to blame everything on "the war," and perhaps the war will serve as the reason in this case. Certainly it was about that time or shortly after that lager beer began to grow in popularity and young men and boys began to cultivate a fondness for it and thereby to acquire a taste for alcoholic liquors of all kinds. The cigarette vice followed to reinforce and stimulate the drinking habit, until now a boy is scarcely in his teens before he begins to smoke his nasty cigarette and drink his sophisticated beer and bad whisky, and gangs of youths, who ought to be at school or serving an apprenticeship to some honest calling, go swaggering about the streets and in and out of taverns and are not ashamed to greet their mothers with their breath reeking of smoke and alcohol.

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's St. Helena [illegible] Port, Angelica, Riesling and [illegible] Wines, as also his vacuum distilled pure [illegible] Brandy, are vastly superior to other manufactures, [illegible] that [illegible] the adulterations and impurities [illegible] which [illegible] are generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Nine-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Scheffler's Wines and sanitary Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well in almost every household as a medicine, if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which relieves his brandy of the fusel oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

INDEPENDENCE IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Mitchell Publicly withdraws from the Role of a Me-Too Senator.

He is Ready for a Square Fight with the Cameron Clan of Pennsylvania.

The Philadelphia Press of the 7th inst. contains a letter from Senator Mitchell to Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia, in which he makes a declaration of independence of the Cameron administration and of war against it. He says:

I think your conclusion that as hitherto managed the republican party is on the decline in Pennsylvania is quite true, in view of the judgment passed upon its management lately in your city and elsewhere. These reasons do not surprise me, because they naturally supervene, and one who has watched the disease as I have recognizes them as inevitable. But it is one thing to diagnose and quite another to cure a disease. When I said to a friend, lately, that Philadelphia should send representative men to the May convention as one of local application, he insisted that the remedy should come from the country; that Philadelphia cannot now speak for herself by such men. This I do not credit. At least I hope it is otherwise, and that you will look to this and see whether she cannot have a will of her own therein. The trouble has generally come from Philadelphia and Pittsburg as combined central forces, united with rotten-borough representatives from the minority counties. I have seen it over and over again in legislatures and conventions. With such forces combined and skillfully generaled the country has ever been overpowered or used, and must be until honest and good men everywhere combine. Then they can make short work of all who stand in their way. But this involves a change of leadership, if not all the leaders. We are in process of reconstruction, and must not forget that there can be no leaders without followers. Such a change of front in the face of a well disciplined adversary is a very dangerous feat. Still, when the time comes, as in this case, it is a necessary evolution, and it will go on of its own force, whatever its fledgling may be—ringed, streaked or speckled; therefore I conclude that a change of leaders is now inevitable, or a change in the spirit and action of those who remain. This has been my expectation for years. My advice has been consistent with this view from the first. I am sorry that it has not been respected more than it appears to me to have been; but too much should not be expected from men grown rigid in practice upon a different line of thought. I do not believe in the political methods too much and too long practiced in our state. The people generally do not. I have opposed them from my first entrance into legislative life, and shall continue to do so. But I must do this in ways that I deem to be faithful to my obligations and my duty to the republican party. I shall be condemned, of course, on the one side or on the other, and probably somewhat upon both sides. I expected this from the first, for I know that my election was but a truce between opposing and enduring forces, one of which, founded in conscience and right, led by superior intellect, would be the master in this process of reconstruction. It was a natural against an artificial aristocracy. These forces are still extant and active; therefore strife and friction are inevitable.

Now what do you propose as a remedy? What would you have me do? I am willing to do anything to reunite and strengthen the republican party for the work which lies before it. Its principles must be adhered to. The rights and interests of men and capital demand this, the higher work of the new republic in many things require it. The spirit of that party will not die. It may be incorporated anew, but its soul goes marching on. The principal dangers, then, which lie along the path of this new departure are material, and they threaten the tariff, the currency, the even tenor of trade, and the encouragement of commerce also. These will suffer while we cross this stream unless we make sure of our footing in passing. What we now need is a representative convention with a will and mind of its own—a body of men who will reflect the sentiment of the localities they represent, who shall confer, deliberate and decide what is for the best as to men for the front and as to measures for their guidance in office. The work of such a convention would be ratified at the polls; that of one met only to indorse what has been decreed in a spirit of dictation will not be in my judgment at the next election. We should find a common ground on which we can all stand in behalf of the cause we love. Why not? There are plenty of good men on both sides in your city. Why can you not invite a meeting of such? First, a few in quiet, and later more, and so carry your delegate elections for good men who have the confidence of both sides? There must be a multiple for each side. It must be found sooner or later, and the sooner the better for all. I think the men who have run things in your city see now that rest is good for them. If not, still there can be such conference and union of those who will join to guard what each desires to gain. I hope such an effort will be made. For myself I am willing and I believe the people would be willing to lay aside all personal preference as against the advice of such a convention.

A WASHINGTON TERRITORY POET.

From the Argonaut.

The Washington territory poet, who has before favored us with some little gems of song, has again written. His poem, "The Meeting of the Columbia and the Snake," will be remembered by our readers. We think that in weirdness it is excelled by the following:

LAKE PEND D'OREILLE.

Oh Lake Pend d'Oreille!
You will yet see the day,
Of merry noises ringing,
And gleeful voices singing,
When your clear waters play,
With the sunshine's bright ray;
And fair fishers flinging,
Over your waters swinging,
The fishing line and tackle,
For your finny tribe to tackle;
In the soft month of May,
When all things are gay.

Along your shores rumbling,
With distant echoes mumbling,
Trains on the N. P. R. R.,
From distant lands afar,
Will not at all be fumbling;
But into your waters tumbling,
At times, causing quite a jar,
And your placid waters mar,
Your lovers then can cackle;
Your beauties 'll have no shackle.,
Tourists will not then be humbling;
But to your shores come jumbling.

MACHINE OPERATIONS IN NEW YORK.

Notwithstanding the fact that Conkling has dropped out of New York politics, New York politics continue to run on and in about the same way as before. President Arthur now appears to be the principal figure. He is opposing the renomination of Cornell for governor, because the latter's re-election might make him a formidable rival of Arthur's for the Presidential nomination. To this end he is represented as favoring the selection of some such man as Representative Hiscock or Senator Miller for governor. He is said to be of the opinion that, in case either of these gentlemen were elected, the way would be clear to him to secure the New York delegation in the next national convention. He contends also that, if the republicans are to be defeated in the state election, it will be better to sacrifice somebody who is nominally identified with the "half breed" element, as he may then claim that the republicans can only carry the state through the agency of the Modoc tribe. He seems to be thoroughly convinced that the action of the national convention may be controlled entirely by the manipulation of New York politics, and feels confident in his own efficiency in that kind of business.

Mr. Arthur evidently does not realize the vastness of the job in hand and has but a poor conception of national politics. New York is only one of the thirty-eight states which elect the president, and the conduct of the New York politicians during the past eighteen months has been such as to weaken even the proportional influence of that state in controlling the action of the republican party in the convention of 1884. The American people are not apt to forget by that time the political events which preceded and led up to the assassination of President Garfield, and they are not disposed to reward with the highest political preferment the very men who were responsible for all the factional dissension and rancor that bore down upon Garfield. Mr. Arthur may have sufficient power in New York politics to prevent Gov. Cornell from securing a renomination. He may be able to control the "machine" so completely as to prevent any Garfield man from being a candidate. But after all this shall have been accomplished he will discover the impossibility of any subsequent effort to manipulate the national convention and to convince the representatives of the republican party throughout the country that a politician of his calibre and methods is essential to republican success in 1884.

The New York machine is not going to run the republican party of the nation in the future more than it has in the past. It made desperate but futile effort to do so in 1880, under the guidance of Conkling with "a bigger man than Arthur" as a presidential candidate. The defeat was followed by an exhibition of resentment and selfishness which still further lowered the New York machine politicians in the estimation of the country at large. They have [illegible] no claim upon popular confidence or party influence, but, on the contrary, have forfeited the respect which might have led them to success.

AGRICULTURE IN THE SOUTH.

Reports from the lower Mississippi and throughout the southern states picture a bright outlook for agricultural operations this year. It is reported that the prospect, excepting in the recently flooded districts, is decidedly more favorable than it has been for years past. The mild weather preceding the present unusual cold snap has greatly favored farm work in all sections south, and farmers are much farther ahead in their planting than they have been in past seasons. From Arkansas comes the report that the farmers are at least a month ahead of their usual time for past years. Wheat and oats are now growing finely, and the ground is being rapidly prepared for corn and cotton, the acreage cleared during the winter being unusually large. The crops of Northern Texas are likewise in good condition. The wheat there is showing symptoms of a vigorous growth. The oats, barley, and rye and corn are likewise growing very finely. The cotton planting has not been begun as yet, but all the other crops are making satisfactory progress. As to the [illegible] of cotton and corn in the [illegible] district there is some [illegible]. Certain farmers contend that the soaking of the land will only favor [illegible] while, on the other [illegible] equal confidence that as soon as the plant appears above ground it will be [illegible] and worms. In this connection a [illegible] says that some fields of wheat in [illegible] and adjoining counties are [illegible], and the prospects of an [illegible] yield were never better [illegible]. The farmers in Tipton and Lauderdale have already planted their entire corn crop, and the fields generally have been well tilled. As a whole, therefore, the prospects of the southern crops may properly be pronounced perfectly satisfactory.

The April report of the department of agriculture, showing the acreage and condition of wheat, will give great encouragement to the advocates of a more diversified farming for the south. The total acreage for the country is [illegible],000, an increase of 800,000 acres, or two per cent, over last year. Meanwhile Michigan shows an increase of but 3 per cent., Indiana 4 and Ohio 1, and some western states a considerable decrease, the cotton states report an average increase of 36 per cent., or over 800,000 acres, divided as follows: Kentucky, 15 per cent., North Carolina 18, South Carolina 10, Georgia [illegible], Florida [illegible], Alabama 33, Mississippi 84, Louisiana 75, Texas 72, Arkansas 70, Tennessee [illegible]. In most of these states the present condition of the crop is above the average. It is evident that last year's short crop of cotton disgusted thousands of "all cotton" farmers with the [illegible] of that over-cultivated staple, and [illegible] them to devote a portion of their soil and labor to the raising of something they could eat. A good crop of wheat this year will strengthen their confidence in varied farming, and put them on the road to emancipation from the usurious clutches of the [illegible]," and the legalized robbery of the credit system.

THE ENGLISH SCHOOLS.

Important changes are soon to be made in the English school system, as regards both their "machinery" and course of study. The revised education code, to which we have heretofore made reference, has been completed after a year's consideration by the educational department of the English government, and will be immediately laid before parliament, with the prospect of speedy passage. The code, as it now stands, is a revision of that which was drawn up in 1860 by Mr. Lowe, and has since been in force, but has almost become impracticable through its failure to meet the wants of increased population and changes in educational methods and ideas. The change in government grants, one of the most important features of the revised code is as follows:

> In the new code the average attendance of the year will form the basis of the whole grant. The fixed grant for attendance is raised from four shillings to four shillings and sixpence. The grant for reading, writing and arithmetic is to be eight shillings and fourpence per head if all the children in the school pass satisfactorily in all three. For every child that fails to pass there is to be a deduction of one penny. The grant for singing is to remain as before, one shilling per head, except that the sum will be reduced one-half if it is taught by the ear and not by notes. For "class subjects" the sum payable will be one shilling or two shillings, according to excellence. For general merit, such as organization, discipline, method, etc., there will also be an allowance, but it will vary in accordance with the inspector's report. Some changes are made with regard to "specific subjects," and the children offering them must belong to the fifth standard instead of the fourth, as before. In these and these alone payment is to be individual and not calculated with any reference to the average attendance of the year.

The effect of these changes will be that good schools will earn more than they do now, and bad schools less. Teachers are no longer to be burdened with keeping the records of the birth, entry, and year's progress of each child. Right here there is an important point. Under our school system nearly half the time and effort of teachers are employed in detail drudgery which has no effect upon the progress of students and only remotely affects the discipline of the schools. The energies of teachers should not be thus wasted.

The subjects of instruction have also been modified by the new code. Where formerly Shakespeare, Milton and English history were insisted upon other standard authors may be accepted. It may be doubted if the change is for the better. The very best models of thought and expression, and such the works of Shakespeare and Milton will without doubt ever remain, should not be discarded. University graduates and women who have passed special university examinations are to be made eligible to assistant teacherships, and experienced teachers should now rise to sub-inspectorships. Hereafter the infant schools are to be entrusted to more competent teachers, and when the number in a class exceeds sixty the teacher will be certificated. In the case of girls, sewing will count for a class subject. In arithmetic, the test will be the same for boys and girls, only a little more leniency will be shown in the latter case—a provision which will seem strange in this country where no such distinction is made. Special attention is paid to night schools, and any child under twelve years of age, who is not a day scholar, may attend them. It seems to be the unanimous testimony of scholars in England that the new code is the best the country has ever had, and that under its operation, youth of both sexes will receive better instruction than ever before.

WHY THE CZAR IS PEACEFUL.

A fruitful source of discontent in Russia has been the financial complications of the government and the grossly incompetent manner in which the finances have been administered, as well as the official peculations and outright stealings. It has been credited to the czar that the only good thing he has accomplished during the first year of his reign, has been to break up some of this stealing, and that he has saved in this manner about $35,000,000. A report which has recently been sent to the British government by one of the secretaries of the British embassy in St. Petersburg shows how necessary saving is in some direction. The ordinary receipts exceeded the estimates $103,500 for 1880, but the total expenditure exceeded the revenue $[illegible],015,600—a result which is due to the practice of allowing all the departments to exceed the estimates without any check. As an example of this, in 1878 the estimates for railway expenditure were set down at $3,335,000, and the sum actually expended was five and a half times that amount. The entire railroad indebtedness to the government is set down at $112,550,000, and it is out of this indebtedness that the new minister of finance hopes to be able to make up some of the tremendous deficit. He has also forbidden all supplementary credits, and will allow no money to be spent without the sanction of the emperor, while the extraordinary expenditure is to be continued to reproductive works alone, a policy which may be carried out if Russia remains at peace. Perhaps the most cogent reason why the czar is so desirous to keep at peace may be found in the horrible condition of his budget, for one more war, in the present condition of the empire, would be likely to bankrupt it.

Senator Jones has received many letters from colored people who think he was hard on their race in his speech against Chinese immigration. One of his correspondents, T. T. Allain, who was once a prominent colored republican in Louisiana, writes: "Should the spirit of your last speech in the United States senate, striking 'Sambo' over 'John Chinaman's shoulder,' be carried out in its full spirit throughout the length and breadth of this country, it will do poor 'Sambo' more harm in the future than bulldozing did him in the past."

The supreme court of the United States upholds the right of the state of Texas to tax telegraph messages within its own limits, but denies its right to tax messages which originate or go outside of the state, as that belongs to inter-state commerce; and denies also the right of the state to tax messages sent by agents of the government as an unconstitutional interference with the execution of the government's powers. Texas has taxed all messages one cent each.

Mahone and his followers gained a great point in the passage of the Riddleberger bill, but it settled the issue upon which the readjuster party was based, and left the Virginia gentleman without partisan capital. Mahone now announces that the readjuster party will hereafter be known as the administration party, and that its members will be the active supporters of President Arthur.

It is stated that the tests made with the lignites along the Northern Pacific railroad, have proved so satisfactory that the grade of coal will meet requirements as a domestic fuel. The subject is one that deeply interests many sections in Dakota. It opens out a good market for the lignites which are found in great abundance along the Northern Pacific railroad.

President Arthur has found a Pennsylvania man who does not want an office. A Mr. Strang, lately appointed United States marshal for Dakota, has been to Yankton to look over the ground, and telegraphs to Washington that he does not want the place. No Ohio man has yet declined.

The Chinese bill was considered in the senate yesterday, but did not reach a vote. Mr. Dawes, so the telegraph reports, has experienced a change of heart and spoke in favor of the bill.

The fact is noted that while the late lamented Mr. Jesse James of Missouri could cut a throat with agility, he neither smoked cigarettes, cigars nor chewed tobacco.

Ralph Waldo Emerson, poet and philosopher, died last night at his home in Concord, Massachusetts. He was born in Boston, May 25, 1803.

GOOD FOR SORE EYES.
THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT IN JUNE, 1881, I had acute inflammation in my eyes, and in spite of all the surgical aid I received in Oregon my eyes continued to get worse, until at length I became totally blind. In August I went to San Francisco and was under the treatment of two oculists of considerable repute. One was a professor of diseases of the eye, and I remained under his care one month, but continuing to get worse, I changed to another so-called specialist, to find I was only jumping out of the frying-pan into the fire. I next consulted Dr. Pardee, [illegible] Clay street, San Francisco. His treatment relieved me from the very first and I continued to improve day by day, until I could see to read as well as any one. I found his treatment both simple and mild, different from any and all other treatments I had received. My residence is in Astoria, Oregon. I write this card at my own expense out of pure gratitude to Dr. Pardee and with the wish to let [illegible] similarly afflicted know where to go to get their eyesight. I have been through the mill and speak from a sad experience. [illegible] HENRY HARRISON.

For Hotel Arrivals see fourth page.

DOWELL VS APPLEGATE.—The celebrated case of B. F. Dowell vs Jesse Applegate in the U. S. circuit court will be submitted to Judge Sawyer. It will be remembered that Dowell and Applegate were sureties on the bond of Sam May, the defaulting secretary of state, who was short $14,000. Dowell alleges that Applegate fraudulently disposed of his property, and left him to pay the entire sum. He asked that the alleged fraudulent transfer be set aside. Judge Sawyer will probably render a decision in July.

CULL'S INJURIES.—Pat. Cull, who was injured by falling from Eagle creek bridge, near the Cascades, Monday, was brought to this city by the Cascades boat last night, and taken to Drs. Chapman & Lane's office. Both bones of the right arm are broken, his head cut in several places, both legs crushed, but no bones broken, and besides these, he sustained severe internal injuries. Still Cull has a splendid constitution and will probably recover. He was taken last night to St. Vincent's.

SUIT TO CONDEMN.—The Northern Pacific Railroad Company yesterday began suit in the state circuit court against Thomas Huntington and the Portland Savings Bank to condemn Park block 220, bounded by O. N., East Park and West Park streets for railroad purposes. The company tendered Mr. Huntington $1[illegible],000 for the block, which they claim is its full value. This he refused. The bank holds a mortgage of $4000 on the property, hence is made party to the suit.

FOUR MONTHS' IMMIGRATION.—There arrived by ocean into the Columbia river during January, February and March, 7159 immigrants, and in April to date, 5216—total, 12,375. It is safe to assume that the number by ocean to Puget Sound and overland from the east and California is 5000. Those in a position to form correct estimates believe that the immigration to Oregon and Washington during 1882 will not be less than 50,000.

THREATENING TO KILL.—Adolphus Chamberlin was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with threatening to kill T. M. InShane, the complainant. Chamberlin was arraigned in Justice Petrain's court, where he was bound over to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $500. Having been unable to furnish bonds, he was taken to the county jail.

TURNING THE TABLES.—Henry Pulsky, who was sentenced Wednesday to twelve days confinement in the county jail, lodged a complaint yesterday against J. W. Nickum, who was his prosecuting witness. Pulsky alleges that Nickum stole the cloth in the first place. The latter was arraigned in Justice Phelan's court, and released under bond.

HECKER BURIED.—Yesterday Mr. H. B. Thielsen, assistant chief engineer of the O. R. & N. Co., received a telegram from Lincoln, Colorado, from the wife of Charles Hecker who was killed at Eagle creek bridge Monday, requesting that the remains be buried here. The body was consequently interred by Coroner Garnold in the afternoon.

MUTUAL AID ELECTION.—At its last meeting the Firemen's Mutual Aid Society elected the following new officers: President, Geo. C. Sears; vice president, Wm. Lundberg; secretary, C. J. Christie; treasurer, Joseph Simon. The society voted a salary to the secretary for all work in future.

ANNIVERSARIES.—Yesterday was the 19th anniversary of the establishment of the high school; also the 13th year of Prof. L. W. Pratt's connection as principal with the Harrison street school. Flags on both buildings were flying in honor of the events.

DEAD.—Hon. O. F. Beattie, ex-chairman of the democratic state central committee, died at his home in Oregon City last Monday. Mr. Beattie was an honorable and honored man and his death is more than a local loss.

BOUND OVER.—Antoine Maudiers, who is charged with threatening to kill his wife, was arraigned in Justice Davis court yesterday, where he waived examination. His bonds were fixed at $500, which was furnished.

LECTURE.—Mr. A. E. MacCalskey of this city, delivered a lecture at Seattle Tuesday evening, before a number of gentlemen on the "Religion of Dickens." The local papers speak in terms of praise of the lecture.

MISS DUBOIS.—The Rome correspondent of the Detroit Free Press writes to his paper that Miss Belle DuBois, of whom he speaks in flattering terms, will make her debut in Italian opera this year.

MORE VIGILANTES.—A correspondent writing from Sprague, W. T., says that a vigilance committee has been organized and desperate characters driven out of town.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

[Vancouver Independent.]

Capt. Chas. Berg, recently appointed assistant quartermaster, served in this department for several years at different posts.

Col. Rochester, recently assigned as chief paymaster of this department, was to have left San Francisco to arrive here this week.

2d Lieut. Fred. B. Feltz, 1st cav., arrived down from Fort Colville in charge of military convicts on Monday and leaves to-day to rejoin his station.

Capt. Max Wessendorf, 1st cav., arrived at department headquarters on Friday last and leaves here on Friday next for his station at Walla Walla.

Major John A. Kress, chief ordnance officer of the department, left here for Benicia arsenal yesterday. He will probably return on the same steamer.

John M. Brannan, colonel 1st artillery, has been placed on the retired list. Lieut. Col. Albion P. Howe, of the 2d artillery, will succeed him as colonel of the 1st.

Col. Franklin F. Flint, 4th inf., has been retired, which promotes Lt. Col. W. P. Carlin, 17th inf., which [illegible] for Lt. Col. Edwin C. Mason.

Dating from the 1st of May, 1882, Fort Stevens, at the mouth of the Columbia, will be reorganized and maintained as a separate post, under command of Capt. John C. White, 1st artillery.

The telegraphic construction party, charged with the duty of stringing the wire from Spokane Falls to Fort Spokane, had arrived at the Falls on Monday. A heavy snow [illegible] which may somewhat impede operations. Should the weather have cleared they are now well on the way.

On Tuesday, April 11th, while target practice was going on at Fort Boise, Idaho, private E. S. Harrison, company A, 21st infantry, stepped before the 500 yard target without displaying the danger signal. [illegible] at that instant, and Harrison was shot through the shoulder and neck, and seriously wounded.

CROCKER ACQUITTED.

The Mate of the Storm King found Not Guilty of the Charge of Manslaughter in the Drowning of Fredricksen at Astoria.

The case of the United States against Cyrus F. Crocker, mate of the ship Storm King, charged with manslaughter, committed by refusing to allow a sail boat to rescue Harry Fredrickson after he had jumped overboard from the vessel lying at anchor below Astoria, came up in the United States district court yesterday before Judge Deady and the following jury: J[illegible] Hall, James E. Aiken, Hamilton F. Corbett, W. K. Smith, John B. Garrison, James E. McCraken, R. Mendenhall, J. M. Partlow, Bernard Pape, Ross Merrick, Chas. E. Ladd and C. Austin. The government was represented by District Attorney Hon. J. F. Watson and the defendant by Messrs. Ehinger & Bonrne. The testimony was stenographed by J. W. Cochran of Vancouver. The facts connected with the drowning of Fredricksen, Crocker's arrest, and the attempted lynching of Nick Bavich, are no doubt still fresh in the minds of the readers of THE OREGONIAN. Five witnesses, including the fishermen who were prevented from rescuing the drowning man, were examined on behalf of the prosecution and a like number appeared for the defense. The preponderance of testimony went to show that Crocker, simultaneous with the order to the sailboat to stand off, ordered the ship's boat lowered; that Fredricksen was between Crocker and the sail boat, and must have heard the order to lower the ship's boat, that notwithstanding the sail boat stood off, Fredricksen struck out for the current towards it, when he might have drifted down with the ebb towards the ship's stern, where its boat was lowered, that Fredricksen was a strong swimmer, and that Crocker, as soon as he saw Fredricksen weaken, countermanded his order to the sail boat and requested its occupants to save the man.

After short but very able arguments on both sides, and the court's charge, the jury retired at 5 o'clock, and after a half hour's deliberation returned a verdict of "not guilty."

AN INDEPENDENT MOVEMENT.

Formation of the Multnomah Co. Independent Club—Officers and Committees.

Wednesday evening about fifty voters assembled by previous arrangement in Beck's hall in Centennial block, on Second street, to effect an independent political organization. They met with closed doors, and reporters were refused admission. Yesterday afternoon the proceedings were made public.

Frank Dekum was chosen temporary president and S. R. Irwin temporary secretary. The following resolutions were read and adopted:

Preamble. We, the undersigned members of this association, hold this truth to be self-evident: That the political condition of this country demands the earnest attention of all who desire to maintain political principles in their purity; and recognizing at this time the necessity of some positive action by the citizens of this county in condemnation of the usual course taken at precinct nomination by a certain few bosses in the party, and believing in a firm and united stand now being taken in favor of nominations by the people rather than those made in caucus by a few who desire to rule their party, therefore be it

Resolved, First—That this association shall be known as and constitute the Multnomah Independent Citizens' Club.

Second—Its object shall be to maintain an honest political organization in this county and to defeat the designs of any corrupt ring.

Third—Its officers shall consist of a president, two vice presidents, two secretaries, a treasurer and sergeant-at-arms, said officers to be elected by ballot.

Fourth—The president shall have the power to appoint special committees, who shall render their reports in writing.

Fifth—The president shall appoint a committee of three from each precinct who shall be authorized to organize precinct clubs.

Sixth—The president shall be empowered to appoint by and with the consent of this club, a committee consisting of one person from each precinct, said committee to select two delegates from each precinct to attend a convention for the purpose of nominating a county ticket. Said convention to meet at such time and place as the committee shall determine.

OFFICERS.

An election of officers resulted as follows: President, Frank Dekum; first vice president, Cyrus Bockman; second vice president, Ira F. Powers; secretary, G. A. Mooney; treasurer, J. F. Coyne, sergeant-at-arms, L. H. Parsons.

The following committees were appointed:

Finance—J. A. Strowbridge, Ira F. Powers and W. S. Gordon.

Printing—H. B. Moore, Wallace R. Struble, H. F. Suksdorf and P. E. Beach.

Hall—Frank Lelum.

It is understood that a full county ticket will be nominated.

WAS HE CRAZY?

"Summer has come," he yelled, as he passed us at the corner of First and Stark streets, this morning. When he reached the corner of Washington street, he bellowed in a loud voice, "I am G. D. if I don't get one of Woods the Hatter's new style of straw hats before all the nice ones are picked out." THE OREGONIAN thinks the man was sane.

NOTES FROM TILLAMOOK.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

TILLAMOOK, April 23.

Zeb. Thomas, an old pioneer, has been suffering with dropsy for some weeks, and is not expected to recover.

Mrs. Quick has re-opened the Quick hotel and rumors are afloat of a change in proprietorship of the La Salle house.

Mr. Cottle, U. S. surveyor, is surveying in the coal region north of the Nehalem river. He expects to be in that vicinity for a month or more.

There is nine feet of snow in the mountains between here and North Yamhill, over two feet having fallen during the last four days and still snowing. The mail carrier crosses without snowshoes, carrying the mail six miles on his back.

The toll road from North Yamhill to this point, has changed hands, Messrs. Hall & Perkins having purchased it. They propose to make several important changes and to put the road in No. 1 condition, just as soon as the snow will permit them to do so.

The action of "His Accidency" in vetoing the Chinese bill, is universally condemned. We doubt if there is another county on the coast can boast, as we can, of not having and never having had a Chinaman to remain within its borders, and yet the indignation over the veto is all the more intense.

John Hobson, of the firm of Lienenweber & Hobson, arrived on the last steamer. Work on the new cannery to be erected by them on Tillamook bay, has begun and will be pushed forward as rapidly as circumstances will permit. It is expected three months time will be required in which to complete it.

B. A. Bayley, of Garibaldi, was bound over to appear before the U. S. district court, for selling liquor to Indians, recently. A complaint was also entered against him for selling liquor at Tillamook without a license. He was discharged, however, the commissioner, J. L. Story, not considering the proof sufficient.

A good deal of dissatisfaction is manifested among republicans on account of the nominations made for county officers by the recent convention, and a considerable number talk of bolting part of the ticket. The democrats are consequently jubilant and hope to be able to run in three or four democrats. Green Chance, a whilom employe on THE OREGONIAN, was a candidate for sheriff, but "got left."

Parties looking for homes would do well to come here as there are many good places to be had for the taking, both here and on the Nehalem, and a considerable number of improved places can be bought at reasonable figures. The climate is healthful and the country only needs the influx of an energetic class of people to develop its resources to make it one of the best dairy and stock raising regions in the state. Its capabilities can hardly be over-estimated.

WHITTIER ON LONGFELLOW.

With a glory of winter sunshine
Over his locks of gray,
In the old historic mansion,
He sat on his last birthday,

With his books and his pleasant pictures,
And his household and his kin,
While a sound as of myriads singing
From far and near stole in.

It came from his own fair city,
From the prairie's boundless plain,
From the Golden Gate of sunset,
And the cedar woods of Maine.

And his heart grew warm within him,
And his moistening eyes grew dim,
For he knew that his country's children
Were singing songs of him.

The lays of his life's glad morning,
The psalms of his evening time,
Whose echoes shall float forever
On the winds of every clime—

All their beautiful consolations,
Sent forth like birds of cheer,
Came flocking back to his windows,
And sang in the poet's ear.

Grateful, but solemn and tender,
The music rose and fell,
With a joy akin to sadness,
And a greeting like a farewell.

With a sense of awe he listened
To the voices, sweet and young:
The last of earth and the first of heaven
Seemed in the songs they sung.

And waiting a little longer
For the wonderful change to come,
He heard the summoning angel
Who calls God's children home.

And to him in a holier welcome,
Was the mystical meaning given
Of the words of the blessed Master:
"Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

A DEFAMATORY REPORT.

Iowa State Leader.

The St. Louis Republican has a man on its staff who is given to diving down into the facts and figures of the United States census, wherein he succeeds in making some discoveries considerably in conflict with previously entertained ideas. For instance, one of those discoveries, and one that was very shocking in its effects, was that republican states invariably support more saloons per capita than democratic states. Commenting on this our neighbor down the river grows facetious. He says that liquor drinking is a common pastime with democrats. All democrats drink, and most democrats drink a great deal. Nine-tenths of the liquor made in the United States finds its way down democratic throats, and nine-tenths of the revenue on spirits paid into the treasury comes out of democratic pockets. Republicans do not drink liquor. The fire, frenzy, and concentrated wickedness in the article are antagonistic to the exalted serenity and morality of these exemplary persons, and, therefore, they abhor it. Republicans never drink anything more iniquitous than pop and root beer. Hence the communities that turn out steady and unvarying republican majorities are noted for their sobriety, high morality, decorousness and general exemption from the vices and ills that afflict people whose indulgences are not limited to ice water and pop.

These are axioms. No one dares dispute them. They are printed in big letters in the American primer.

Still, there are some things that puzzle us. Kansas is a republican teetotal state. Not a drop of liquor is drunk in Kansas from one year to another. And yet, the statistics of the internal revenue bureau for last year return 1122 licensed saloons for the sale of spirits in Kansas—a greater number than is returned for South Carolina, which is democratic, and wholly given up to liquor drinking. There is one dram shop in Kansas to every 897 persons; in South Carolina, one to every 910 persons. Then, there is the republican and teetotal state of Maine, where, too, the people have had no knowledge of the taste, smell and color of liquor for ten years; yet the official report credits Maine with one saloon to every 791 inhabitants. Then there is Massachusetts, which has one saloon for every 245 inhabitants, while Arkansas has only one for every 558 inhabitants. Rhode Island has twice as many in proportion to population as Georgia—the figures being, in Massachusetts, one saloon to every 296 souls, and in Georgia one to every 612. One saloon to every 498 souls suffice in Kentucky, but Ohio requires one to every 228 souls.

Of course there must be something wrong in these figures, since they conflict with the axioms of the republican primer. The commissioner of internal revenue ought to be called to account for his temerity in permitting such an insanely defamatory document to go out of his office.

SCHUYLER COLFAX REFUSES.

He Gratefully but Positively Declines to be a Candidate for Congress.

South Bend, Ind., April 3.

To the Editor of the South Bend Tribune:

MY DEAR SIR: The unexpected demands, by too partial friends, that I should return to the public service, are sincerely appreciated by me, even though I cannot respond as they desire. All through the [illegible] eventful years of the nation's history in which my public life was cast, the unchangeable confidence and regard of my constituents was not only a shield and a buckler, but a solace, which lightened many a burden, and a joy which always gladdened my heart. And till my dying day I cannot forget the cordial and hearty 'home-greeting' by 10,000 home friends, of all parties, when at the close of my public life I returned to South Bend as a private citizen. I determined then that [illegible] the service of my country was inadequate performance of my citizen's duty, and which, as I found then, had been so conscientiously performed that I do not fear the severest judgment of my creator on every act of that public life, from its commencement to its close.

My heart is not a cold one, and it has been touched by the friendly and urgent appeals that I should exchange my present independent and enjoyable life as a private citizen for the toils and responsibilities of official station, as well as by the indorsement of these manifestations by so many outside of the district. But I must reply that, knowing by experience all about these labors, I cannot consent to again undertake their performance and must, therefore, be allowed to decline, gratefully and respectfully, but positively and inflexibly. I have considered the question in every aspect, and it is but due to whoever may finally be selected as our standard-bearer that I should state thus early that I cannot be a candidate in any contingency, and cannot accept the nomination, even if tendered with the understanding that I should not be expected to canvass [illegible], as in the olden time. If public service is regarded as a pleasure, I have certainly had more than my share of that pleasure. If it is regarded as a duty, have I not performed my full share of that duty? And my only ambition is to go in and out among my townsmen as a private citizen during what years of life may remain for me to enjoy on earth. With sincere regard for yourself and all other friends who have interested themselves in this matter, I am, very truly yours,

SCHUYLER COLFAX.

PERSONALITIES.

Mr. Burnand is accused of making London Punch a little too bitter.—Boston Transcript. Well, he puts very little Lemon in it. Mark that.—New Haven Register.

The czar has written to the morganatic widow of his father who has been residing at Carlsruhe since the death of Alexander II, requesting her to return to Russia and live in St. Petersburg.

Prince Leopold is to be married in tartan, and the English papers suggest that the Princess Helene should wear a bridal dress of cotton, in order to show her appreciation of that branch of English manufacture.

There lately died in Paris a remarkable man in the person of Mr. Blindworth, who was called the "Dean of the European Corps of Spies." The son of an English mechanic, who had settled at Gottingen, he passed his life as a political state spy, and grew rich in the business.

Mr. Blaine is evidently not so much at home in quoting scripture as in characterizing Burke, Webster and Quincy Adams. The third sentence of his in memoriam Garfield address refers to events which marked "many lintels" with "the blood of the first-born." The reference is doubtless to the circumstances under which the Israelites went out of Egypt. Now, if Mr. Blaine will turn to Exodus xii, 22, 23, he will find that the blood on the lintels was for a token that the first-born were to be spared.

OREGON AND WASHINGTON TIMBER.

The following excellent article is from the Mississippi Valley Lumberman, published at Minneapolis, and bears good testimony to the value of our forest resources:

It would scarcely be possible to exaggerate the extent and value of the forests of this region. East and west of the Cascade mountains there are large tracts of timber lands which the lumbermen have not yet invaded. Many such tracts will be brought within the reach of markets on the completion of the transportation lines now in course of construction. In the Blue mountains and on the eastern slope of the Cascades the supply of timber is more than sufficient to cover the local demand. It will yield a large surplus for shipment to the level timberless territories lying eastward. But west of the Cascade mountains, and especially in Washington territory, the lumberman must look for the material which will keep his mills at work without fear of exhausting the supply. The finest body of timber in the world is embraced between the Columbia river and British Columbia and the Pacific ocean and the Cascades. At a low estimate, one-half the growth of the Puget Sound district consists of trees which will yield 20,000 feet of lumber to the acre. The approximate quantity therefore, in this tract alone, the area of which is nearly as large as the state of Iowa, is not less than 160,000,000,000 feet. During the last 35 years the aggregate cut has been perhaps not more than 2,500,000,000 feet, leaving a supply of 137,500,000,000 feet from which to draw. The principal growths are fir, pine, spruce, cedar, larch and hemlock, although white oak, maple, cottonwood, ash, alder and other varieties are found in considerable quantities. Three kinds of cedar, two of fir, and three of pine are indigenous to the country. The fir, however, exceeds in quantity and value all the other species combined, and the cedar ranks second in this respect. Trees attain an unusual development, both with regard to height and to symmetry of form. Perhaps nowhere else are they found so tall, straight and gently tapering as to adapt them peculiarly for ships' spars and masts. The yellow fir is not infrequently 250 feet in height; the pine 120 to 180 feet; the silver fir 150 feet; white cedar, 100 feet; white oak, 70 feet, and black spruce, 150 feet. Cedars have been found of 53 feet girth and 120 feet in height. The sugar pine of Oregon is equal to the best cedar. Ordinary sized trees yield 5000 to 8000 feet of lumber each, and many as much as 15,000. Of this are made railroad ties, boards, deals, fencing, laths, paling, pickets, barrel staves and heads, household furniture and ship timber. The product of the saw mills is shipped to San Francisco, the Sandwich islands, Mexico, the Pacific coast of South America, Australia and even to England and France, China and Japan. The first saw mill was built on Puget Sound in 1851, with a capacity of 1000 feet daily. In 1853 a steam saw mill was erected at Seattle which could cut 8000 to 10,000 feet per day. The business has since greatly increased. The largest saw mill of the fifteen in operation on Puget Sound is that at Port Ludlow with a capacity of 200,000 feet per day. The other mills are situated at Port Gamble, Port Madison, Port Blakely, Port Discovery, Seabeck, Utsalady, Tacoma and New Tacoma and the remainder at Seattle. The aggregate daily cutting of these mills is over 1,000,000 feet. Some of the logs sawed are enormous in girth, and sometimes 115 feet in length. Planing mills are attached to most of these large saw mills and dressed building lumber is obtained as required. Each mill is admirably situated, with a view to economical production, and nearly every one of them comprises a town of itself, with stores, shops, steamtugs, lumber vessels and dwellings owned by the companies. It is the custom at these mills to wait for an order and then to saw the lumber to fill it. Sometimes a fleet of half a dozen large vessels may be seen at the same time loading lumber just cut by the saws of these great mills. Ship building in connection with this business, is also an important feature.

The export of lumber from Puget sound during 1881 amounted to 174,770,700 feet, valued at $1,718,226. Of this, 41,760,700 feet, valued at $394,066, were shipped to foreign ports and the remainder coastwise. Owing to competition and to great facilities of production, the price of lumber has steadily fallen in recent years in spite of the fact that the demand has constantly increased. The average price in 1881 was $9.80 per thousand feet.

The existing conditions of lumbering at Puget sound could not be more favorable. The forests remain for the most part in virgin condition, except for a distance from the banks of the streams and estuaries; the shores are not so abrupt as to prevent easy handling of the timber; the harbors are numerous, deep and well sheltered; the hardships, losses and delays incident to severe winters are unknown; logs may be floated down the river without danger of a sudden rise and the breaking of "booms;" by clearing the river channels of drift, logs and lumber may be run out for long distances, and rafts may be towed with ease on the waters of the sound with only the ebb and flow of the tide to consider in moving them to points of shipment. In this way loggers bring logs from all the bodies of timber along the shore lines to the mills and dispose of them at fair rates to the owners. This gives employment to hundreds of workingmen. There are still very many desirable places for establishing not only saw mills but factories for the manufacture of barrels, pails, house trimmings, doors, sashes, blinds, moldings, and every other article made of wood. These opportunities are not confined to Puget Sound. They exist along the harbors and bays of the entire coast of Washington territory and Oregon, and are only used as yet to a comparatively small extent. For some purposes, and particularly in the manufacture of beautiful household furniture, the ornamental woods of Oregon are unsurpassed.

Chinese and the Railroads.

Chicago Tribune.

In his Chinese veto message Arthur talks about the great benefit this country has derived from Chinese cheap labor in building railroads. Let us see about that. All the railroad grading done by Mongolians in the United States has been in the employment of the Pacific railroad monopolists, who fleece the people of the Pacific slope in the most shameful manner. The coolies have done the excavating and grading on just about 1000 miles of road, working for $1 a day and boarding themselves. White men over there could not support their families on such wages, and hence were crowded out of the employment. But of the 100,000 miles of completed railroads in the United States white men have done the grading on 90,000, colored men in the south on 9000, and Chinese on 1000 miles. White men have made and laid the rails on the entire 100,000 miles. If no coolies had ever set foot on our shores there would not be one mile less railroad built on the Pacific coast, while there would be to-day half a million more white people living on that slope who would be of infinitely more value to that portion of our country than the hordes of Mongolians who have excluded them.

American and English Tourists.

London Saturday Review.

Travelers of each nation are wont to interest themselves, with noteworthy uniformity, in the same class of objects in the countries they visit. To an American, for example, it is obvious that not nature, with mountains, forests, and waterfalls; not art, with temples, pictures, and statues; nor arsenals or theatres, shops or factories; but living men and women, forms always and everywhere the supreme objects of curiosity. No people of course, are altogether devoid of such interest in their kind. Shelley's "Witch of Atlas" is certainly neither a Frenchwoman nor yet a German, neither Italian nor English. But to us "Britishers" the proportionate space occupied in our minds by the men and women we meet on our journeys, compared to the scenes, we have visited, is generally insignificant. Looking back on many a trip, we scarcely recall a single personality connected therewith, while we have the clearest vision of a lake, a hill, a picture, a temple, or a sunrise out of the sea. All this is different with our cousins across the Atlantic. Men and women must be more at a premium in the states than in old England—at least men and women with any sort of claim to notoriety. Whether we have had in our time a superfinity of such fellow-creatures, or are naturally less genial, less kindly, less genuinely ready to acknowledge other gifts than are Americans, the fact remains that, for us, human beings—unless exceptionally attractive—are rather indifferent, sometimes distinctly tedious. The consequence is that records of English travel usually contain nine pages of amateur "Murray" for one of "Personal Recollections of A. B. and C.," while American books of the same class nearly reverse the proportions of their topics.

Here is the record of a recent day's work by Mr. Gladstone: In the early morning there was the usual business with his private secretaries—business of itself sufficient to exhaust the energies of most men—then followed a journey to Windsor, the council, the private interview with the queen, and the return to London. Immediately afterward came the great gathering at Downing street, and the speech from the prime minister; then followed the sitting of the house of commons, where questions had to be answered and two speeches made; while the day was wound up by the long and remarkable address on the main question of the procedure of the lords.

Skobeleff is a young man for his rank, being still under forty. He is very tall and well built and gives external appearance of the great physical force and endurance with which he is credited. The expression of the general's face, however, is singularly good and mild. He wears a long auburn beard, flowing down on his breast. Skobeleff speaks French as well as Russian. He makes no secret of his desire to free thoroughly, if not annex, Bulgaria, and says he has only to hold up his hand to make forty thousand of the inhabitants rise as one man.

General Robert Toombs has given to the Atlanta Constitution his opinion on two important subjects. When asked what he thought of the new party movement in Georgia, he said, sententiously, "I have the greatest contempt for it." He then took from between his lips an unlighted cigar, the butt of which he had been chewing, and remarked: "Young man, I have been chewing the ends of cigars for twenty-seven years and I have never yet lighted one." "Do you wish these facts laid before the public?" "I don't," said the general.

At Helena, Montana, a few days ago, a woman was arrested for having snatched a ticket from the hand of a would-be voter, tearing it up and slapping his face for voting the said ticket. She pleaded guilty, and was fined according to law.

They have succeeded in teaching Sitting Bull to have the delirium tremens, so now the old man has no hankering for scalps, and amuses himself by merely fighting the air and thinking he's killing rattlesnakes.

King of the Blood

Is not "a cure-all," it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle. D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

SEALED TENDERS FOR RAILROAD TIES

WILL BE RECEIVED UNTIL 12 M., MAY 15, 1882, for furnishing two hundred and thirty-two thousand (232,000) cross-ties along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Emory and Burrard Inlet, viz:

Twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Port Moody station, or at a point on the line of said railway between Port Moody and Pitt River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Pitt River, or between Pitt River and Kanaka Creek.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Kanaka Creek, or between Kanaka Creek and Stave River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Stave River, or between Stave River and Hatzic River.

Other forty thousand (40,000) thereof at Hatzic River, or between Hatzic River and Harrison River.

Other twenty-seven thousand (27,000) thereof at Harrison River, or between Harrison River and the lower end of Maria Slough.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the lower end of Maria Slough, or between said lower end of Maria Slough and Tunnel "C" of said railway which tunnel is about 15 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other ten thousand (10,000) thereof at said Tunnel "C," or between said Tunnel "C" and Tunnel "D," which latter tunnel is about 11 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other fifteen thousand (15,000) thereof at Tunnel "D" aforesaid, or between said Tunnel "D" and Tunnel "F" on said railway.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the said Tunnel "F," or between said Tunnel "F" and Emory's Bar, or at Emory's Bar.

All such sleepers or cross-ties shall be delivered alongside the railway and within fifty feet of the center line of the track, and shall be piled up so as not to interfere with the work of construction.

The bottom of the pile shall be as nearly as practicable on a level with the grade of the railway track; and the said pile shall be so made as to permit of ready inspection and counting; and wherever such piles shall be made near water lines, bodies of water or rivers the same shall be placed in such location that the bottom of the pile shall in all events be above the line of high water.

It will be necessary to deliver at least fifteen thousand (15,000) acceptable ties per month from date of entering into contract until completion of same.

Ties must be smoothly hewed or sawed, free from all scoreharks, and chopped or sawed square at both ends, eight feet long, flatted on two opposite sides to a uniform thickness of six inches, the flatted surface being not less than six inches on either side of the small end, and when sawed they shall be eight inches in width and six inches in depth.

All ties must be of sound timber, full size, and acceptable by the chief engineer of said railway, or they will not be paid for.

Ten per cent. will be reserved upon payment of accepted ties until completion of contract, and ten thousand dollars ($10,000) approved security required before signing contract. The security or securities to be given must be described in the tender. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Tenders to be addressed to the undersigned, Yale, B. C., and endorsed: "Tenders for Ties on Contract No. 62."

A. ONDERDONK, Contractor.
